TCU supports GED

The Putnam County Community Foundation announced that with generous support from TCU Financial Services, GED classes at the Knoy Resource Center in Cloverdale High School will continue throughout the spring of 2009. “TCU is honored to partner with the Knoy Resource Center and the Putnam County Community Foundation in supporting this valuable program,” said Pam Lage, TCU Service Center Manager.

The Knoy Resource Center provides individualized, convenient, free, and high-quality GED classes for the public. Due to the high demand for classes, advance registration is required and may be completed by contacting Toni Tomlinson or Michael Nees at 765.795.2495 x 5562. “Our GED instructors, volunteers, and generous supporters are dedicated to providing excellent customer service and to helping each person achieve success,” said Toni Tomlinson, Coordinator of the Knoy Resource Center.
